

Nature Center News

Melissa Leasia March 1, 2020 :

Thank you to Evergreen Library! Once again, the library reserved the display window across from the circulation desk for the Evergreen Nature Center for the entire month of February. As you can see, Dina Baker, Nature Center Director, and volunteer Jenna Audlin, did an amazing job of filling the window with plants and animals as well as books and science tools in a preview of what is to come in the Nature Center when we open in April. There were even owl pellets and ... rubber scat?

The window also featured information about the upcoming Native Plant week, along with Explore More! After School and Day Camp programs. To learn more about all the exciting things that Dina and Heather Schwartz, our Nature Educator, have planned for this season, please visit our events calendar.

Don't have young kids? Well, don't be shy! Tell the neighbors! Sign up the grandkids! Invite the nieces and nephews and all your friends to sign up their little ones! Surely we all know young people who love the outdoors and love nature and would love to join the fun!
